

Design Approach

From the very first meeting, we will work with you to pull together a list of requirements to develop your garden design, from materials and garden features to how you ultimately want to use your garden, whether it be a sleek city roof terrace, a contemporary outside entertaining area or a sanctuary for indulging in your love of plants and flowers. Following initial discussions, we will carry out a formal site analysis, prepare the design brief and draw up a presentation plan which we will discuss with you and develop to ensure that all your requirements have been met. Our aim is to deliver a garden which gives you the enjoyment you are seeking from your outdoor space, tailored to fit your needs and budget.

It can be difficult to visualise how your garden could look and to work out where to put features and plants for best effect. Our role is to help you do just that. We will listen carefully to your requirements and ideas then turn them into reality. This could be a full-blown design project including a presentation plan, construction drawings and planting plan or it could be a simple makeover and re-plant.

Our belief is that a garden should:

- reflect the taste and needs of its owner
- mirror and complement the interior space of a building
- be simple but stylish and have strong 'bone structure'
- add value to your property
